Cavs hoping for another win tonight at home against the Chicago Bulls

The Cavs got off to a good start winning their opener thanks to the efforts of Kyrie Irving, Dion Waiters and Tristan Thompson. Tonight the Cavs will have to come out the locker room hooping, the Bulls are looking to pull out their big guns and try to defeat the young Cavalier team.

Cavs talent, led by Head Coach Byron Scott, bust some moves on the court this season at The Q. The high energy action fueled by the award-winning game presentation and a lineup of premium giveaways and special theme nights promises to deliver the best fan experience in the NBA.

Friday Night Out is a great way to tip off the weekend with friends! Starting at $50, fans will receive two tickets plus loaded ticket value (a complimentary dollar value that is electronically uploaded into each individual ticket and can be used toward a food and beverage purchase at The Q the night of the game simply by scanning the ticket when placing an order).

TICKET INFORMATION: Single game tickets and special ticket packages are available by calling 800-820-CAVS (2287), on cavs.com, all northern Ohio Discount Drug Mart locations and the Quicken Loans Arena Box Office. Tickets purchased by phone or at cavs.com will be delivered through Flash Seats, the primary method of ticketing for the Cavaliers and Quicken Loans Arena.
